

A decision for the class

Compare majority voting, reasoning and the protection of minorities.

A transparent ballot box with a blank voting slip and seating for discussion. · AI-generated illustration

A shared decision requires understandable information and a chance for everyone to contribute. A vote settles a question but does not replace every discussion. Minority rights still matter.

Now try it

1. Collect three ideas for a fictional class activity and give one advantage and one drawback for each.
2. Agree on a voting procedure. Explain how the interests of the group that loses the vote could still be considered.

Fictional demo material. Adapt to the learners and the school's teaching before use.

Your notes and findings

Think it through

Is a majority decision automatically fair to everyone?

See a suggested answer

Not necessarily. The procedure, participation and protection of legitimate interests also need consideration.

Fictional demo material. Adapt to the learners and the school's teaching before use.